Overview. Sri Lankan architect Geoffrey Bawa and the buildings he created have become legendary in the region and influential around the world. Few architects achieved his harmonious fusion of local building traditions with modern forms and sensibility. Bawa's early works were houses that artfully married vernacular styles and responses to climate and site with a modern architectural vocabulary.

Geoffrey Bawa designed this house for a director of Aitken Spence [Hotels] at the same time that he was working on the company's Triton Hotel in Ahungalla [in the Galle district]. The house lies hidden behind a high screen wall, which is broken only by the main entrance and the garage. The entrance opens to a long axial corridor.

Henry hired architect Geoffrey Bawa to complete the design for the new club after meeting him on the site of another building project. Though Bawa's practice was based in Sri Lanka, he opened an office in Madras, (now Chennai) from which projects in India could be managed.
